Market Commentary

The second quarter was likely the low point for economic activity and the consensus forecast calls for a fairly strong rebound in activity in the current quarter and a slowing pace in improvement thereafter. However, the outlook remains uncertain. We believe the outlook for economic activity is dependent on the course of the pandemic, the amount of additional fiscal relief from the government, and the timeline for a vaccine. Notably, the effects of the pandemic continue to weigh heavily on the labor market. The Fed's highly accommodative monetary policy framework, along with a swift and robust fiscal policy response from the government earlier this year, has provided support for the financial markets amid a very challenging economic backdrop.

As expected, the Federal Open Market Committee kept the fed funds target rate unchanged at their July meeting in a range of 0.0% to 0.25%. The Fed extended its emergency lending programs through the end of 2020, a three-month extension, and will continue to use its balance sheet to support the flow of credit and stability of financial markets. Fed Chair Powell indicated that the Fed is more cautious about the downside risks to the economy and less concerned about the upside and potential threat of inflation. In August, Fed Chair Powell delivered a speech at the annual Economic Policy Symposium and unveiled a modest shift to the Fed's monetary policy framework. While the Fed is not abandoning its 2.0% inflation target, the Fed will now seek to achieve inflation that averages 2.0% over time. Should the labor market tighten, the Fed will put less emphasis on preemptive monetary policy tightening to prevent an overshoot of inflation. Instead, the Fed will wait for evidence that inflation is heating up and allow inflation to run above 2.0% for some (unspecified) period of time before it looks to tighten policy. The Fed's updated framework essentially signals that the fed funds target rate is likely to stay low for an extended period of time.

Second Quarter GDP

According to the second estimate, US gross domestic product (GDP) declined at an annual rate of 31.7% in the second quarter, just slightly less negative than the initial estimate of -32.9% but still the largest decline on record. This follows a 5.0% annualized decline in first quarter GDP. Personal consumption expenditures plunged 34.1% in the second quarter, following a 6.9% decline in the first quarter. The consensus forecast calls for a fairly strong rebound in consumer spending and overall economic activity in the third quarter, and a slowing pace of improvement in activity thereafter. According to the National Bureau of Economic Research, the US economy officially entered a recession in February 2020, following a 128-month economic expansion. Economic data remains weak but is showing early signs of improvement, which suggests that the recession (which is the period between the peak of economic activity and the trough) may technically already be over.

Second Quarter 2014 – Second Quarter 2020

Initial Claims For Unemployment

In the most recent week, initial jobless claims increased by 881,000, which was lower than the prior week level of 1,011,000. The level of continuing unemployment claims (where the data is lagged by one week) remained high in the week of August 21st at about 13.3 million but was down from the prior week level of nearly 14.5 million. Although continuing jobless claims have declined from the peak of nearly 25 million in early May, they remain well above the 2019 average of 1.7 million.

Initial Jobless Claims and 4-Week Moving Average
May 29, 2020 – August 29, 2020

Consumer Price Index

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) was up 1.0% year-over-year in July, versus up 0.6% in June. Core CPI (CPI less food and energy) was up 1.6% year-over-year in July, versus up 1.2% in June. Pricing pressures are increasing but CPI is running meaningfully lower than pre-pandemic levels, indicating that the effect of the pandemic has been deflationary.

Consumer Price Index (YoY%)
July 2015 – July 2020

Personal Income and Spending

Personal income rose 0.4% in July, following a 1.0% decline in June. Meanwhile, consumer spending rose 1.9% in July following a 6.2% increase in June. Income and spending levels have been more volatile in recent months due to the pandemic and timing of government stimulus.

Personal Income and Spending (MoM%)
July 2015 – July 2020

Consumer Confidence Index

The Consumer Confidence index fell to 84.8 in August from 91.7 in July. We believe the large decline was likely due in part to the expiration of expanded unemployment benefits at the end of July.

August 2015 – August 2020

Existing Home Sales

Existing home sales jumped 24.7% in July to a very strong seasonally adjusted rate of 5.860 million units. On a year-over-year basis, sales of existing homes were up 8.7% in July. Each of the four major regions of the country experienced a double-digit month-over-month increase in July, though the Northeast region remains weaker on a year-over-year basis. The National Association of Realtors characterizes the housing market as “booming.” Very low mortgage rates, strong stock market performance, and a meaningful shift toward working from home are providing strong tailwinds for the housing sector, despite an otherwise challenging economic backdrop.

U.S. Existing Home Sales (MoM)
July 2010 – July 2020

New Home Sales

New home sales rose 13.9% in July to an annualized rate of 901,000 units. On a year-over-year basis, new home sales were up 36.3% in July. This data suggests that new home sales have been quite strong despite the pandemic.

Crude Oil Prices

U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude settled at $36.76 per barrel on September 8, below its one month average of $42.13 and its one year average of $43.99. Oil prices plummeted in the spring, driven by a severe disparity in the supply and demand for oil as well as the timing of futures contract expirations, but the market has since stabilized. Saudi Arabia, Russia and the US agreed in mid-April to lead a multinational coalition in oil production cuts beginning May 1. Under the agreement, world oil production was curtailed. Production cuts will taper off into 2022. Production cuts, along with gradual economic reopening and increased demand, have provided support for oil prices in recent months. Oil prices have come under renewed pressure in the last week due to rising concerns about the demand outlook, with the summer driving season now over and a report that Saudi Arabia is cutting its selling price to Asia.

September 8, 2015 – September 7, 2020

Jet Fuel Prices

Jet fuel (U.S. Gulf Coast Spot) closed at $0.977 per gallon on September 8, below its one month average of $1.110 and its one year average of $1.330. A decline in global demand for jet fuel due to the coronavirus and ongoing travel restrictions has put downward pressure on prices.

September 8, 2015 – September 7, 2020

U.S. Equity Markets

Year-to-date (as of September 8), the DJIA index is down 3.6% but the S&P 500 index is up 3.1%. Tech stocks have largely outperformed, with the tech-heavy Nasdaq index up more than 20% year-to-date. The DJIA and S&P 500 indices are up 47.9% and 48.9%, respectively, from the March 23, 2020 pandemic low, supported by a large-scale fiscal and monetary response. We believe market participants are looking through the weak economic data and projecting a recovery in 2021. In the past week, equities have experienced a modest selloff and we believe financial markets may be poised for increased volatility through year-end due to the upcoming election, a potential resurgence in virus cases this fall, and an unclear outlook for additional fiscal relief. If the expected timeline for a COVID-19 vaccine was pushed into second half of next year or beyond, we believe that would fuel a significant amount of financial market volatility as well.

Treasury Yield History

The yield on 5-year Treasuries has declined about 142 basis points year-to-date, and the yield on 2-year Treasuries has declined about 143 basis points.

2- and 5-year U.S. Treasury Yields
September 8, 2019 – September 9, 2020

Treasury Yield History

Relative to this time last year, the yield curve has steepened. The spread between the 2-year Treasury yield and the 10-year Treasury yield has widened to about 54 basis points as of September 8th, 2020, from about two basis points at the same time last year. Yields across the curve are lower year-over-year, reflecting a decline in global economic growth, a decline in inflation expectations, and rate cuts by the Fed.

2-, 10- and 30-year U.S. Treasury Yields
September 8, 2010 – September 8, 2020

U.S. Treasury Yield Curve

Treasury yields are much lower on a year-over-year basis. Much of the spread movement was in the month of March 2020 with the Fed cutting rates by a total of 150 basis points and concerns about a global recession and a flight to safe-haven assets driving down yields across the curve. The 3-month T-bill yield is down roughly 184 basis points, the 2-Year Treasury yield is down about 140 basis points, and the 10-Year Treasury yield is down about 88 basis points, on a year-over-year basis. Notably, the Treasury began issuing a new 20-year bond in May 2020 (for the first time since 1986) to help fund the growing fiscal deficit and extend the average maturity of its debt.

In the event IDC does not provide a price or if the price provided is not reflective of fair market value, Chandler will obtain pricing from an alternative approved third party pricing source in accordance with our written valuation policy and procedures. Our valuation procedures are also disclosed in Item 5 of our Form ADV Part 2A.

Performance results are presented gross-of-advisory fees and represent the client's Total Return. The deduction of advisory fees lowers performance results. These results include the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Past performance may not be indicative of future results. Therefore, clients should not assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable or equal to past performance levels. All investment strategies have the potential for profit or loss. Economic factors, market conditions or changes in investment strategies, contributions or withdrawals may materially alter the performance and results of your portfolio.

Index returns assume reinvestment of all distributions. Historical performance results for investment indexes generally do not reflect the deduction of transaction and/or custodial charges or the deduction of an investment management fee, the incurrence of which would have the effect of decreasing historical performance results. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Fixed income investments are subject to interest, credit and market risk. Interest rate risk: the value of fixed income investments will decline as interest rates rise. Credit risk: the possibility that the borrower may not be able to repay interest and principal. Low rated bonds generally have to pay higher interest rates to attract investors willing to take on greater risk. Market risk: the bond market in general could decline due to economic conditions, especially during periods of rising interest rates.

Ratings information have been provided by Moody's, S&P and Fitch through data feeds we believe to be reliable as of the date of this statement, however we cannot guarantee its accuracy.

Security level ratings for U.S. Agency issued mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") reflect the issuer rating because the securities themselves are not rated. The issuing U.S. Agency guarantees the full and timely payment of both principal and interest and carries a AA+/Aaa/AAA by S&P, Moody's and Fitch respectively.
