Review of the Unaudited Financial Statements for the Two Months Ended August 31, 2021 and 2020

Presented by:
Elizabeth Stewart,
Interim Director, Accounting

Market Commentary

While some pockets of the economy remain dislocated, US real gross domestic product (GDP) has recovered to pre-pandemic levels. The recovery has been fueled by robust fiscal spending, accommodative monetary policy, and vaccinations. These factors are beginning to moderate but should continue to provide tailwinds for the economy in the coming quarters. The resurgence of the virus in the US is causing a modest disruption in economic activity and having a negative impact on consumer sentiment. Supply chain and labor market disruptions are also likely to continue while global infection rates remain uncontained, putting ongoing upward pressure on transportation, input, and labor costs. Some pandemic-related fiscal relief has started to phase out, but an infrastructure spending plan is on the horizon. Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve remains accommodative and continues to facilitate further improvement in the labor market. Overall, we believe the US economy continues to grow at a strong, above-trend, pace but we believe economic data will remain somewhat choppy over the near-term.

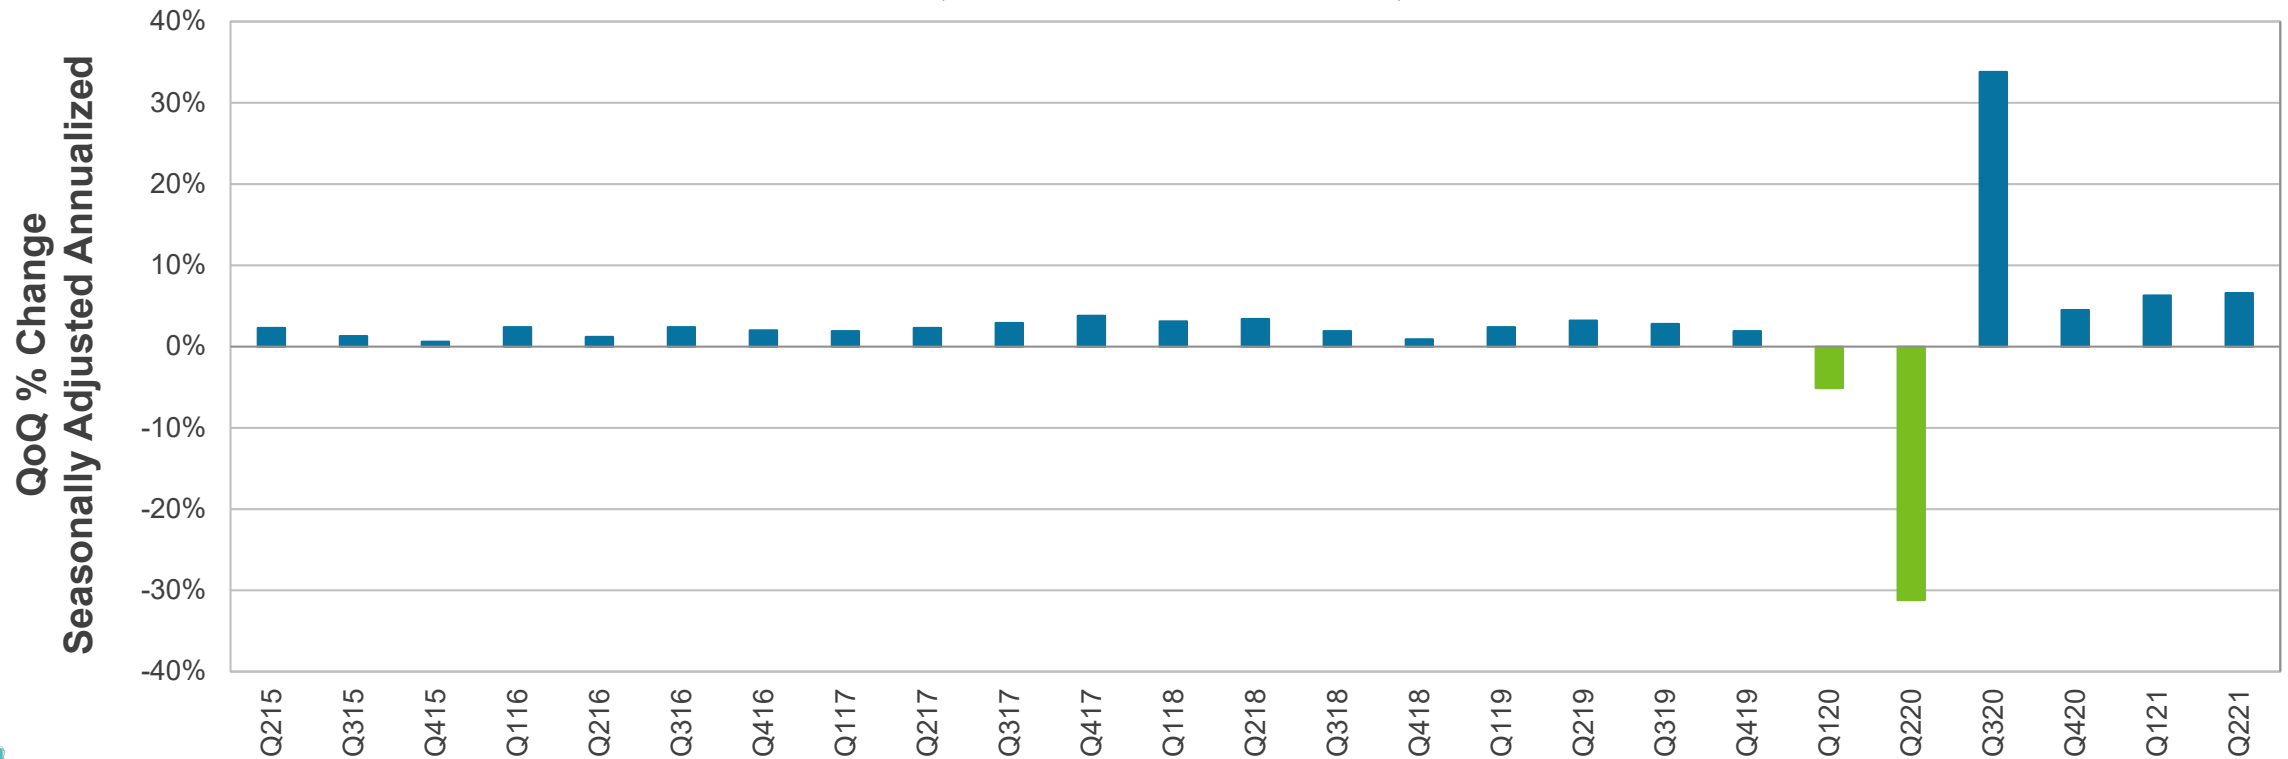

Fed Chair Powell confirmed that rate hikes are not imminent, and he maintained a dovish tone during his speech at the Jackson Hole economic symposium in late-August. He noted that the unemployment rate remains elevated and labor force participation remains well below pre-pandemic levels. He also continues to believe that at least some of the factors driving higher inflation will be transitory and cautioned that raising the fed funds rate too soon could be detrimental to the labor market recovery. However, it seems that most Fed policymakers have decoupled their opinion about the fed funds rate from their opinion on tapering asset purchases. Chair Powell noted that the conditions needed to justify an increase in the fed funds rate would be much more rigorous than the conditions needed to start tapering asset purchases. We believe a plateau or decline in new US virus infection rates, continued efficacy of existing vaccines, along with a solid September employment report may catalyze the Fed to announce at the November Federal Open Market Committee meeting their intent to begin tapering asset purchases. However, we expect the fed funds rate to remain near the zero lower bound through 2022.

Second Quarter GDP

According to the second estimate, real US gross domestic product (GDP) grew at an annualized rate of 6.6% in the second quarter (revised up slightly from the advance estimate of 6.5%), following 6.3% growth in the first quarter. During the second quarter, the US economy more than recouped the output lost during the pandemic. As of the second quarter, GDP now stands 0.8% above the fourth quarter of 2019. The consensus forecast for full year 2021 US gross domestic product growth has moderated but remains well above the long-run trend growth rate of about 1.8%. The current Bloomberg consensus estimates for 2021 and 2022 US GDP growth are 6.0% and 4.2%, respectively, following a 3.4% decline in 2020.

U.S. Gross Domestic Product (QoQ) Second Quarter 2015 – Second Quarter 2021

Initial Claims For Unemployment

In the most recent week, the number of initial jobless claims was 310,000 versus 345,000 in the prior week. The level of continuing unemployment claims (where the data is lagged by one week) was marginally better at 2.783 million versus 2.805 million in the prior week. Continuing jobless claims have declined significantly from the peak of nearly 25 million in May 2020, but they remained above the 2019 (pre-pandemic) average of 1.7 million.

Initial Jobless Claims and 4-Week Moving Average
 June 4, 2021 – September 3, 2021

Consumer Price Index

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) was up 5.4% year-over-year in July, unchanged on a year-over-year basis from June. Core CPI (CPI less food and energy) was up 4.3% year-over-year in July (in line with expectations), versus up 4.5% in June. Current inflation readings are running well above the Fed's longer-run target of around 2.0%. While the Fed believes many of the factors fueling higher inflation will be temporary, the upward pressure on inflation from supply chain bottlenecks and pandemic-related disruptions is likely to remain elevated over the near-term.

Consumer Price Index (YoY%)
July 2016 – July 2021

Personal Income and Spending

Personal income rose 1.1% in July, well above expectations, driven by an increase in wages and salaries and an improving labor market. Millions of US households started receiving child tax credit payments in July which likely provided a boost to overall personal income in the month as well. Consumer spending rose a modest 0.3% in July.

Personal Income and Spending (MoM%)
July 2016 – July 2021

Consumer Confidence Index

The Consumer Confidence index dropped to 113.8 in August from 125.1 in July. The index's decline was bigger than expected, driven by concerns about the continued surge in US virus infection rates and the recent uptick in inflationary pressures.

Consumer Confidence Index
August 2016 – August 2021

Existing Home Sales

Existing home sales increased 2.0% in July to a seasonally adjusted rate of 5.990 million units, exceeding expectations. On a year-over-year basis, sales of existing homes were up 1.5% in July.

U.S. Existing Home Sales (MoM)
July 2011 – July 2021

New Home Sales

New home sales rose 1.0% in July to an annualized rate of 708,000 units. On a year-over-year basis, the pace of new home sales was down 27.2% in July. The pace of new home sales has eased and we believe significant price appreciation over the past year may be deterring home buyers.

U.S. New Home Sales
July 2011 – July 2021

Crude Oil Prices

U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude settled at $69.72 per barrel on September 10. It is above its one month average of $67.73 and its one year average of $57.49. OPEC and its allies (i.e. OPEC+) began gradually curbing production cuts in May. In July, the group agreed to increase monthly crude oil production starting in August. Earlier this month, OPEC+ agreed to continue increasing oil production in measured steps, despite pressure from the White House to boost production at a faster pace. Meanwhile, concerns about the Delta COVID-19 variant and the impact on economic activity put downward pressure on oil prices in July and August. However, oil prices have risen in the last few weeks, largely due to disruptions caused by Hurricane Ida. The Energy Information Association expects the price of Brent crude oil to remain near current levels for the remainder of the year. They also anticipate that continued growth in production from OPEC and its allies and accelerating growth in US oil production next year will outpace decelerating growth in global oil consumption, and the EIA expects Brent crude oil prices to decline next year.

West Texas Intermediate Oil Price Per Barrel (WTI Spot)
September 10, 2016 – September 10, 2021

Jet Fuel Prices

Jet fuel (U.S. Gulf Coast Spot) closed at $1.941 per gallon on September 10, above its one month average of $1.854 and its one year average of $1.540. A decline in global demand for jet fuel due to the coronavirus and ongoing travel restrictions put significant downward pressure on prices in 2020. However, the US economic reopening and rising travel demand has supported a recovery in jet fuel prices this year. However, multiple airlines have recently reported an increase in cancellations and a drop in air travel demand due to a recent resurgence of the virus in many states.

September 10, 2016 – September 10, 2021

U.S. Equity Markets

Year-to-date, the DJIA and S&P 500 are up 13.1% and 18.7%, respectively. We believe accommodative monetary policy, robust fiscal spending, and continued progress on vaccinations should be supportive of the economy and risk assets in 2021.

Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) and S&P 500 Indices
September 10, 2016 – September 10, 2021

Treasury Yield History

Year-to-date, the yield on 5-year Treasuries is roughly 46 basis points higher, while the yield on 2-year Treasuries is about nine basis points higher.

2- and 5-year U.S. Treasury Yields
September 10, 2020 – September 10, 2021

Treasury Yield History

The spread between the 2-year Treasury yield and the 10-year Treasury yield is roughly 113 basis points, versus a spread of about 54 basis points at this time last year. The current spread between the 2-year Treasury yield and 10-year Treasury yield is below longer-term trends, as the average spread since 2002 has been about 135 basis points.

2-, 10- and 30-year U.S. Treasury Yields
September 10, 2011 – September 10, 2021

U.S. Treasury Yield Curve

The Treasury yield curve is steeper on a year-over-year basis. The 3-month T-bill yield is down about seven basis points, the 2-Year Treasury yield about seven basis points higher, and the 10-Year Treasury yield is higher by 66 basis points, on a year-over-year basis. We believe the Treasury yield curve is poised for further steepening.

Performance results are presented gross-of-advisory fees and represent the client's Total Return. The deduction of advisory fees lowers performance results. These results include the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Past performance may not be indicative of future results. Economic factors, market conditions or changes in investment strategies, contributions or withdrawals may materially alter the performance and results of your portfolio.

Index returns assume reinvestment of all distributions. Historical performance results for investment indexes generally do not reflect the deduction of transaction and/or custodial charges or the deduction of an investment management fee, the incurrence of which would have the effect of decreasing historical performance results. Fixed income investments are subject to interest, credit and market risk. Interest rate risk: the value of fixed income investments will decline as interest rates rise. Credit risk: the possibility that the borrower may not be able to repay interest and principal. Low rated bonds generally have to pay higher interest rates to attract investors willing to take on greater risk. Market risk: the bond market in general could decline due to economic conditions, especially during periods of rising interest rates.

Ratings information have been provided by Moody's, S&P and Fitch through data feeds we believe to be reliable as of the date of this statement, however we cannot guarantee its accuracy.

Security level ratings for U.S. Agency issued mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") reflect the issuer rating because the securities themselves are not rated. The issuing U.S. Agency guarantees the full and timely payment of both principal and interest and carries a AA+/Aaa/AAA by S&P, Moody's and Fitch respectively.

Hi Hampton,

Please see below confirmation from Alaska Airlines on an HQ visit for the afternoon on November 29. Did we want to treat them to a dinner? We could fly up either on the 7AM or 850AM departures arriving 10:10 / noon into SEA. Our meeting is at 1400. We could then invite them to dinner and depart morning of 30th? Does that work to propose to Kim?

Thanks,

Hey Kevin,

We'll check internally to make sure we have the gate and schedule info we needed and get back to you, our ops guy who's been collecting that is on PTO right now.

We had selected dates that ourselves, Kim and Hampton could attend. So it would be the four of us. A good representation from your full team would be appreciated in that instance 😊.

Hope that helps.

Thanks,
Brian

Follow-up on my end, did planning provide you the gate stuff you had needed? I thought they had closed the loop.

Looking at dates, trying to gauge audience to invite. Will it be you two, is Kim going to join? Others?

We know we discussed a Fall HQ visit at that time so wanted to follow up on that and see if possibly November 29 or 30 or December 6 or 7 could work for you guys? Let us know.
